John Sibula chaired the Greenville Treaty Line Committee and after 3 years of his diligence a brass disk was set in a 4 foot deep reinforced concrete block. Curt Deibel, Bruce Conery, John and Paul Tomic worked a long Saturday, August 24th to boat the materials to the site, dig the hole, mix the concrete set the disk. The monument is on the bank of the Tuscarawas River on the Greenville Treaty Line near the beginning point of Israel Ludlow's survey of 1797. An easement is being prepared to access the site on private property.
