Building the American Dream

Reinvests in America

In every region, every city, every town, every company, every organization, every person is working hard to make America great again. And we're doing it together.

We're investing in our people, our infrastructure, our education, our health care, our environment, our future.

We're building a future that is brighter, more prosperous, more hopeful, more American.

America is coming to its feet. America is coming to life. America is coming to shine.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is never satisfied, a country that is always moving forward, a country that is always moving ahead.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always striving, a country that is always reaching, a country that is always striving to be the best.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always optimistic, a country that is always hopeful, a country that is always confident.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always strong, a country that is always free, a country that is always united.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always proud, a country that is always patriotic, a country that is always loyal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always generous, a country that is always charitable, a country that is always giving.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always respectful, a country that is always courteous, a country that is always polite.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always fair, a country that is always just, a country that is always equal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always strong, a country that is always free, a country that is always united.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always proud, a country that is always patriotic, a country that is always loyal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always generous, a country that is always charitable, a country that is always giving.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always respectful, a country that is always courteous, a country that is always polite.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always fair, a country that is always just, a country that is always equal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always strong, a country that is always free, a country that is always united.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always proud, a country that is always patriotic, a country that is always loyal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always generous, a country that is always charitable, a country that is always giving.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always respectful, a country that is always courteous, a country that is always polite.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always fair, a country that is always just, a country that is always equal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always strong, a country that is always free, a country that is always united.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always proud, a country that is always patriotic, a country that is always loyal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always generous, a country that is always charitable, a country that is always giving.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always respectful, a country that is always courteous, a country that is always polite.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always fair, a country that is always just, a country that is always equal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always strong, a country that is always free, a country that is always united.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always proud, a country that is always patriotic, a country that is always loyal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always generous, a country that is always charitable, a country that is always giving.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always respectful, a country that is always courteous, a country that is always polite.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always fair, a country that is always just, a country that is always equal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always strong, a country that is always free, a country that is always united.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always proud, a country that is always patriotic, a country that is always loyal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always generous, a country that is always charitable, a country that is always giving.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always respectful, a country that is always courteous, a country that is always polite.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always fair, a country that is always just, a country that is always equal.

America is coming to be what it always has been: a country that is always strong, a country that is always free, a country that is always united.
No need to wait for the laminator to heat up.

At The Herald

Laminating
and Pictures with...

Protect your documents with RKC.

Our Mission: Your Success.

Certified Public Accountants

David Schoenfield
Sandra Kiskal CPA
Garrett Todd CPA
Bruce Mecondal CPA
Jay Barton CPA

RKC

Dear Reader,

I am reaching out to you under the aegis of the City of San Francisco to provide a friendly reminder that the city's financial quarter is upon us. As you know, the city's budget is a critical component of our fiscal health. It is important that we all understand the implications of the current budget and take steps to ensure its success.

For your information,

The 2022-23 fiscal year budget has been approved by the Board of Supervisors, and the mayor has signed the ordinance. The budget allocates $8.5 billion for various programs and services throughout the city.

Your continued support is crucial to the success of the city's budget. Please consider making a donation to support the programs that matter to you.

Thank you for your attention.

David Schoenfield